Event Summary

The quality journey may not always come with a planner and roadmap. The year 2020 had many twists and turns in the path, from daily challenges to a huge impact in the healthcare domain and in the world economy. The road ahead in 2021 is also not clear. As unexpected and unprecedented healthcare need pushes cost-burden onto hospital systems, laboratories are faced with budget constraints, while managing demand for higher quality and competitive turnaround time. Efficiently managing these intensifying pressures, while implementing proper tools is critical for the sustainability of laboratory management.

LABCON 2021, the 1st International Diagnostic Conclave of Consortium of Accredited Healthcare Organizations on the theme Strategic Planning in Quality Management was launched on 27th March 2021 aiming to engage with various stakeholders in promoting quality and capacity building in the diagnostic aspects of healthcare delivery/ It was held on a virtual platform involving top-notch leaders and experts of diagnostic sectors from India and abroad focusing on the recent developments in laboratory testing & radiology, quality management of assays and quality tools, as well as addressing the challenges in laboratory Management.

Delegates had the opportunity to learn new strategies from experts, for approaching quality strategies. Additionally, this conclave was designed to boost the confidence of students, honing their ability to collaborate as well as guide them to resolve laboratory-related issues with their colleagues.

As Vaccination drives are rapidly increasing around the world — India is at the forefront in this journey, promising hope for a return to normalcy. Dr Priya Abraham, Chief Guest, addressed the journey of ICMR, National Institute of Virology, in making the indigenous vaccine. Dr Venkatesh Thuppil, Guest of Honour suggested strategies for CAHO Diagnostic Division to spearhead training and research activities. Dr VK Gupta (NABL Expert), CAHO Patrons and other distinguished guests from NABL were also present.

More than 350 delegate registrations were received for the conference with participation from across the country. E-QUIZ Competition was also conducted for delegates and winners were awarded.

The conclave concluded with the Annual General Body Meeting of the Diagnostic Division. CAHO Diagnostic Division has been working towards improving training, education and patient safety goals among diagnosticians and aims to further enhance clinical diagnostics. The experts present at the meeting pointed out that, lab medicine and radiology has transformed from being restricted to clinical reports, to becoming partners, in decision making for healthcare provision.

The insights were also shared on how quality tools, artificial intelligence, audits in different diagnostic divisions can ensure quality healthcare and patient safety. All present members unanimously expressed their dedication towards continuous improvement of lab practices, to build a strong healthcare system in India. Kudos to Dr Seema Bhargava (Organizing Chairman) and Dr Aparna Jairam (Organizing Secretary) along with the Diagnostic Division team and CAHO Secretariat for organizing this wonderful program.
